ABOUT THE CONFERENCE:

Scientific temperament refers to an individual's attitude of logical and rational thinking. An individual is considered to have a scientific temper if he/she employs a scientific method of decision-making in everyday life. This term stresses to be a viable method of acquiring knowledge through the application of the method of science. The human problems can be understood and solved in terms of knowledge gained. Historically Joan of Arc is shown as a victim of Witchcraft. In recent times also certain shocking news reports have shed light upon incidents that led to human fatalities like Witchcraft and superstitious beliefs world-wide. There is a fine line between superstition and religion and treading that fine line is a challenging task. There rests upon the Law of the land, a responsibility in stalling such crimes by bringing in stringent regulations. The present conference is intended to provide a platform to discuss and deliberate the theme in detail during the technical sessions followed by the Panel Discussions being chaired by subject-matter experts.

OBJECTIVES OF CONFERENCE

Facilitating scholars from various fields with a platform for a detailed discussion on various themes surrounding the topics: -

1. To resurrect a discussion on superstitious beliefs and their impact on human lives in relation to the jurisprudence evolved over the years.
2. To analyse new as well as old trends in criminology in the light of superstitious practices, witchcraft, objectification of women, and other pressing issues.
3. To contribute to the debate for a better and safer environment for people.
4. To present/offer further key recommendations, suggestions in policymaking, and the framework of law, with its effective implementation.
